

Mari Stoner

A Northwest native, Mari spent the majority of her childhood in Idaho and Oregon hiking, swimming, running, rafting, and skiing, with summers in Montana on Flathead Lake. Now a Patagonia employee in New York City, she comes to Foy's to Blacktail Trails through Patagonia's Employee Environmental Internship Program. Mari is passionate about conservation and preserving recreational access to nature, and she feels fortunate to utilize her skills to raise awareness and community support for one of the most beautiful and accessible natural areas around Kalispell. Thank you to Mari and to Patagonia for her work with FTBT!
