

Liz Makman started walking her dogs in and above Herron Park in 1999. She and her family had just moved here from Maine and were thrilled to find such wonderful walking trails so close to home. She assumed it was all public land and did not give it much thought. When she learned that it was private land and the public was at risk for losing access to it she joined FTBT. Liz says, “I continue to be inspired by the hard work and perseverance of the individuals working to preserve this incredible piece of land”.

Liz was born and raised in Ohio. Her background is in nursing and public health education. She attended Bowling Green State University in Ohio and Tulane University School of Public Health in New Orleans. She lives near Foy’s Lake with husband Stan, 3 kids, 2 dogs and a cat.
